WRITING

Modern society has a huge choice of entertainment at home: surfing web-pages, playing computer games, watching films etc. All of these kinds are connected with the Internet - a new "king" of our life which has taken over our minds. But the older generation still prefers sitting on a sofa watching TV to the Internet. Is it more interesting than chatting with friends online? ?

Of course television has many broadcasting companies and it means that the quantity of TV-channels is growing up rapidly. However, it is not so bad! We have, for example, lots of educational channels which can tell us about history, art, music and so on.

On the other hand, these channels are only a little part of all existing programmes. Sitcoms, comedies and entertaining shows have replaced the programmes that really worth seeing. Such kind of pastime (I mean watching sitcoms) is not helpful useful for your brain and can only damage it.

All in all, television definitely has many advantages, it fills us with information. Otherwise we should not forget that this information can easily be found in the Internet in any quantities we want so we don't have to pay such big money for a useless thing.

$$1 + 2 + 2 + 1 + 1 = 8.$$
